FROM THE PRESIDENT

As the calendar turned to 2023, I reminisced about some of the things I learned during 2022, especially from students and grandchildren. A list of some of those things in no particular order follows.

- There is a YouTube video explaining how to do most anything you want to do.
- Perfectly good computers become obsolete when their operating systems are no longer supported.
- There is a bewildering choice of places to eat on campus.
- Convection countertop ovens are the latest and greatest kitchen appliance and I have no idea how to operate them.
- A missed connection from Atlanta to Tallahassee still often results in finding a rental car and a four to five hour drive home.
- Students do homework on their cell phones!
- The College of Music's presentation of The Messiah was stupendous. We are blessed to have such talent in our community.
- Wordle is a great word game (found online in the New York Times) but can become obsessive when shared with family and friends.
- I found my slide rule and it still works!
- Some of the best vacation ideas come from family, friends and especially ARF members.
- One of the best places to find coffee on campus is in a library.
- BeReal is one of the latest ways to connect with family and friends. (You are notified every day at a different time to take a photo on your cell phone showing what you are doing and then sharing the photo with your friend group.)
- The oddest things disappeared from store shelves. At various times bubble bath, some canned vegetables, and frozen diced potatoes were among the missing.
- Spotify composes great play lists!
- Grandchildren still provide the best IT support.
- Checking your cell phone while on a treadmill is not a good idea.
- Since I arrived at FSU our student body has grown from 15,000 to 43,000.
- ChatCPT will provide you a passable essay but was no help at all in developing this article.

Best wishes for the coming year. I hope to see you at our 2023 events.

Kirby Kemper, ARF President

Membership News

Welcome back to our first issue of the 2023 FSU Association of Retired Faculty (ARF) Journal. As you know, ARF provides opportunities to continue valued relationships with the University, serves as a conduit for information about upcoming events and supports connections with former and current faculty and their activities. It is an extended family that is strengthened by the fabric of collegiality. Please join us if you're not already a member, and invite your retired friends to join us too, even if they have retired from other universities. New retirees have dues waived for the year of their retirement.

Our spring semester is full of social opportunities with good food and fellowship, and you can read all about them in the pages of this Journal. The Journal is also posted on our website. If you would like a hard copy of the Journal to share or have any questions about our organization, please contact me at bettyserow@yahoo.com.

I look forward to meeting you when we are socializing face to face.

FROM THE PRESIDENT-ELECT

Happy 2023, Everyone!

I hope you had a wonderful holiday season and have recovered from any New Year's festivities. As we continue resuming a "normal" life, ARF has a number of planned activities that will bring us together to enjoy fellowship and learn new things.

The Spring Tour is in the planning stages and more information will follow soon. We are working on a tour of Seminole Productions, an arm of the College of Communication and Information along with Seminole Boosters that has won acclaim for its coverage of FSU sports. We are hoping to combine that tour with a visit to the athletic facilities. Watch for details coming soon!

The Spring Barbecue is set for March 22 at The Rez, aka The Reservation, our usual spot. Once again, Sonny's is providing their delicious barbecue menu. We will begin at 11:30, with lunch followed by the program. Our special guests will again be graduate and undergraduate students talking about their work. The cost for this year's event is $15 and checks payable to "ARF" should be sent by early March to:

Jeff Owens
3233 Beaumont Drive
Tallahassee, FL 32309

The Spring Luncheon is scheduled for May 9, 2023 at the Alumni Center Ballroom, with the social hour beginning at 11:00 AM and lunch at noon. Our guest speaker will be FSU Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs Jim Clark, who, in keeping with our theme of "Changing FSU," will share his vision for the University's academic mission.

Marilyn Young,
President-Elect
2022-23
FSU Professor Emerita

Statue of Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune in US Capitol Submitted By: Nancy Turner

A new sculpture by Nilda Comas was unveiled at the symbolic center of the country this week. A figure of Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune (1875-1955) now represents the state of Florida in National Statuary Hall of the U.S. Capitol. Dr. Bethune used the power of education, political activism, and civil service to fight for racial and gender equality throughout the United States and the world. The statue marks the first sculpture sent from a state to the National Statuary Hall Collection that depicts an African American and the first addition to the collection by an artist of Puerto Rican descent. Continuing the tradition of Augustus Saint-Gaudens and other artists through time, sculptor Nilda Comas continues to create figurative sculptures that move viewers and embodies values.

Thanks to Tom McCaleb for his Service to ARF

Submitted By: Larry Gerber

Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "Life's most persistent and urgent question is: What are you doing for others?" James Allen said, "No duty is more urgent than giving thanks." These two quotes about the urgency of service and showing gratitude made me realize that there is one among us who has dutifully and devotedly served our FSU Association of Retired Faculty and who is most deserving of our expressions of gratitude.

Tom McCaleb has served on the ARF Board of Directors as our Treasurer for the past 10 years. In that capacity, he has served under 10 presidents. I reached out to my predecessors in the office of President to elicit their comments about the service of Tom McCaleb to our Association. The response was unanimous in praise and gratitude for the quality, consistency, reliability, and generosity of Tom McCaleb. Here are just a few of the comments I received from past presidents about Tom: Anne Rowe said, "We owe great thanks to Tom for the enormous service he has rendered to our organization." Jim Melton added, "Tom brought his knowledge and commitment as Treasurer of ARF. That commitment was a gift." Tonya Harris wrote, "We will definitely miss him and the EXCELLENT service he provided." And, Carol Darling contributed, "Tom McCaleb has been an ARF treasurer 'extraordinaire.' He not only performed the multifaceted responsibilities involved with being ARF treasurer with great competence, he also took on other tasks for ARF, and was always a great collaborator and adviser to presidents. Many thanks for a job well done." These are but a few of the high praises given to our fellow ARF member, Tom McCaleb. From my experience of working with Tom I observed the Tom always offered calm, well-considered, and thoughtful solutions or responses to many of the questions brought before the Board. We all leaned on his experience, and expertise and we relished his sense of humor.

Tom's wife, Lynda needs to be mentioned. Lynda has been a faithful supporter of ARF and could always be seen by Tom's side at the registration table of every Luncheon and Barbeque. Thank you, Lynda for your service and for sharing Tom with us.

On a personal note, I have known Tom since 1980. We were neighbors. Tom and Lynda's three boys grew up with my three daughters. I have always cherished Tom and Lynda's friendship. It was an honor and a joy to get to serve ARF with them.

As you may know, Tom has decided to step away from the office of Treasurer. He will be dearly missed. Fortunately, the membership has elected a wonderful successor as our new treasurer, Jeff Owens. Jeff has already hit the ground running.

So, now it is time to say, Tom, thank you! We are elated to know that you and Lynda will still be active members of ARF. Please know that we, as a mighty chorus, offer our gratitude to you and Lynda for all you have done for us. You have served as a role model of service to our entire membership. We will miss your counsel and humor at the Board meetings.

See you at the Fall Luncheon, old friend!

State of the University

Florida State University President Richard McCullough reflected on the remarkable achievements of the past year and said that he is filled with optimism about leading the university to greater heights during his State of the University address Wednesday.

"We are an academic powerhouse on the rise, and I look to the future with confidence and excitement," McCullough said.

McCullough delivered his annual update to the FSU Faculty Senate during the group's monthly meeting, which took place in the Durell Peaden Auditorium at the College of Medicine.

his month, which include rising

He noted that at a time when some universities across the nation are struggling with declining enrollments and deep cuts in state funding, FSU is seeing record numbers of student applications and greater investments from public and private sources than ever before.

"I think it's very clear that our time is now," McCullough said.

During the address, McCullough outlined the nine goals he presented to the Board of Trustees earlier in the national rankings, investing in student success and expanding the university's research enterprise.

He reaffirmed the university's overarching goal to achieve recognition as one of the nation's Top 15 public universities and make progress toward membership in the Association of American Universities (AAU). In September, U.S. News & World Report again ranked FSU No. 19 on its list of the top public universities, and McCullough said he is confident that the university will continue to rise.

"We continue to get better because of our hard work, optimism and, most importantly, strategic investments," he said. "We look at every category at this university and dig down deep ... This year student indebtedness is down, faculty compensation is up, our student test scores are up, the quality of students is up, and our competitiveness on a national scale is rising."

A focus on student success and increasing graduation and retention rates are fueling FSU's rise in the rankings and driving student applications. In fact, FSU had the most first-year student applications of any institution in the State University System of Florida with about 80,000 this year.

This past year, the university invested additional resources to enhance programming for first-generation students through the Center for Academic Retention and Enhancement, or CARE, allocated funding to double the number of Honors students from 400 to 800, and raised $15 million in gifts to support and grow the Presidential Scholars Program – FSU's premier undergraduate scholarship.

Another major goal is to expand the university's research enterprise. McCullough pointed to the new FSU Health initiative, which will create opportunities to attract significant National Institutes of Health (NIH) funding and increase the university's research portfolio exponentially.

Last spring, the Florida Legislature appropriated $125 million to build a new academic health center in Tallahassee. The project promises to transform health care delivery, education, and biomedical research in the region and make Tallahassee a health care destination. The vision for FSU Health extends to Panama City and throughout the booming Panhandle region.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for Florida State to move into our backyard and build a research and health care delivery system for this region," McCullough said.

To help achieve FSU's academic and research goals, McCullough said one of his top priorities has been to hire more full-time, tenure-track faculty. In the past year, the university has made major investments in this area, hiring more than 150 new faculty, with about 90 of those in tenure-track positions.

"We are especially focused on identifying and recruiting senior-level faculty, including National Academy members," he said. "These faculty will help us pursue our research goals, attract federal grant funding and contribute to our national prominence."

Along with growing the research enterprise, McCullough said the university will continue to support a culture of entrepreneurship and innovation by streamlining tech transfer policies to help make it easier for students and faculty to bring their ideas to the marketplace.

McCullough said the university is actively working on implementing recommendations of the President's Task Force on Anti-Racism, Equity, and Inclusion, and several initiatives have already been completed, including increasing funding to hire underrepresented faculty.

This year's legislative session, which included a $125 million appropriation for FSU Health, was the most successful in university history. When the next session begins in the spring, McCullough said the university will continue to use a strategic approach and seek funding and operational support that will help FSU reach its long-term goals of reaching the nation's Top 10 public universities and membership in the AAU.

"We have bold and audacious goals, and of course we cannot accomplish them alone," he said. "As a public institution, we are uniquely positioned to improve the quality of life at Florida State University, but also the quality of life in the State of Florida."

Fundraising is another top priority for McCullough, and the university will build upon an excellent year. In the past fiscal year, the FSU Foundation raised its second-highest total in gifts and pledges in more than a decade. He said the university will focus on increasing alumni giving and will begin laying the groundwork for its next comprehensive campaign and securing gifts for the university's highest, most strategic priorities.

In closing, McCullough underscored his optimism toward FSU's future, and pledged to work tirelessly to achieve the university's goals.

"From student success and faculty achievement to research and entrepreneurship; from fundraising and relationship building to nurturing an inclusive community and celebrating our athletic success, we have been relentless in our pursuit of excellence, and we have gained national attention for our efforts," he said.

"This truly is our time."

Tallahassee Song 1940's

Bing Crosby & Andrews Sisters

When you see land
(Out of the window of a train)
Kinda green and grassy,
(How in the world can you complain?)
Beneath a moon
(You ought to see the way it shines)
Bright beyond compare,
(The way it shines upon the pines)
When you hear blue jays chirping high and sassy,
And catch one sniff of southern cooking
Hanging on the evening air
(Supper's waiting on the table)
When you see folks
(Having their after dinner chats)

All polite and classy
(Gentlemen all remove their hats)
And every smile
(Perfect harmony and peace)
Bids you stay and rest,
(Hand the porter your valise)
Get off that train,
(Sit down and rest your chassis,)
You're in Tallahassee
(The Cap8ital City of Florida and)
The Southland at its best!
(But Dixie at its very best!)

A River Cruise & Tulips Galore

Jeff Owens

In late April of 2022 Lori Bush and I went on a river cruise in the Netherlands sponsored by the Tallahassee Garden Club. We flew to Amsterdam on April 23, arriving on the morning of the 24th. The first official activity was on the 25th, so we had a day to walk around Amsterdam and take in some of the sights. On the 25th we took a bus to the Floriade Expo. This is an international Expo with many countries setting up their own displays and pavilions. Some were still under construction, but there were many interesting exhibits nonetheless. On the 26th we were back in Amsterdam and took a boat tour along the canals and saw many historic homes and buildings. Later that day we boarded the ship for the river cruise portion of the trip, operated by AMAWaterways. There were about 180 people on the ship and the cabins were quite nice with a good view of the water.

On April 27th we arrived in Hoorn during a holiday known as King's Day. The crowds were large and festive and we had a good time walking around the town – and sampling the free beer! On April 28th we arrived in Middleburg and took a walking tour of the town. I should point out that each day had an offering of morning, afternoon, or all day excursions, so there were plenty of choices. These included walking, biking, and bus tours at the various stops, so one could tailor the activities to the desired level of exertion.

On the 29th we took a bus ride to the cities of Gent and Bruges. There were walking tours of each, as well as some time for shopping. The following day we had a walking tour of Antwerp. Now, I suppose that many of you have seen pictures of Viking River Tours featuring their longboats and beautiful scenes of river valleys, castles, etc. Well, we were in the Netherlands and Brussels. It is very flat terrain - no valleys or castles. But we did go through a lot of locks. This was interesting to watch and to see the other river traffic. As it turns out, most of the days were filled with activities, so the boat moved mostly at night.

On May 1 we had a walking tour of an area filled with windmills. Even though these were over 400 years old, they still are used for pumping water between the canals. We had a tour of one of them and the guide showed how he climbed up the windmill arms to set the cloth "sails" that covered the blades. He did this while wearing traditional wooden shoes!

The highlight of the tour was on May 2 when we toured the Keukenhof Gardens. I had never seen some many tulips and such a wide variety of colors before. This was truly impressive. This was certainly the high point of the trip!

We returned to Tallahassee on May 3 having thoroughly enjoyed our first river cruise. And, yes, we would certainly entertain doing another! Below I have included a number of photos taken along the cruise. We took hundreds of photos, but there is room only for a sampling.

FSU College of Information & Tom Hart's Role in Implementing On-Line Learning

LECTURE IN KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYSIA IN 1998

When Jane Robbins became Dean in 1994, one of her first activities was to explore the possibilities for online learning at Florida State University. The Administration was interested and gave her funds to hire Curriculum Specialists to assist faculty in planning their courses for online delivery. I was Chairman of the College Curriculum Committee and was also interested in our involvement in distance learning.

The first issue was: How to deliver distance learning most effectively?

- It was decided to deliver the first courses on television, using the State's Closed-Circuit service. There were State Studios in Jacksonville, Orlando, Ft. Lauderdale, Miami (Continuing Education Center at Florida International University), and Panama City (FSU Distance learning facility). The University created a Studio in the Shores Building (College of Information Studies that became the College of Information). The Program in Distance Learning began in 1996, when the College also added a new under graduate program in information studies.

- The first course offered was a general introduction, taught by all of the faculty. We visited the on-line sites on a regular basis and would deliver the instruction from the different sites. We had difficulties delivering the course content to all the sites at the same time. Soon we were videotaping the deliveries and distributing them to all the sites.
- We used this process for about two years and then switched to entirely online learning using texting with the students. Over the years I learned how to make sure the students were participating in the discussion. A couple of times during the session I would ask a question that just required a one word answer, to see if they were really paying attention.

The next issue was: How to handle internship and hands on activities.

- We ended up hiring experienced people on location to provide the experiences and a few times a Semester a faculty member would supervise the activity.
- For some of the courses the students were required to demonstrate skills they had learned. These were supervised by local professionals when required.

The online program has been very successful and the School of Information as a part of the College of Communication and Information is considered to be the leader in the information profession in providing quality online learning.

TOM HART as a Professor

How and why did I become a professor?

I came from a family of teachers and became a junior high school teacher/librarian in Kokomo, Indiana. I really did not like to get up early in the morning regularly. When I opened a new library and a new junior high school, I invited a famous professor of educational media from Purdue University to speak to our PTA and toured her around my library. Soon she had the Dean of Education from Purdue University call me for an interview. I was offered an assistant professor position at Purdue in 1965. The rest is History.

Why did I come to teach at FSU?

I was directing two Federally funded Institutes over two years. I had funds to bring prominent speakers for our participants. I asked Professor Sara Srygley from FSU to speak at our first Institute and she was so well received, that I invited her back to be our final speaker for the second year Institute. She asked Dean Harold Goldstein to call me to become an assistant professor at FSU. I resisted several of his calls. Finally, I agreed to come as a consultant, not for an interview. I was so impressed with the FSU School of Library Studies, that I eventually agreed to join the FSU faculty in 1971.

Tom Hart's Professional achievements:

- ❖ Earned over $900,000 of grants from 1965-1970 (equivalent to over $10,000,000 today)
- ❖ Helped create a new master's degree program in Library Science at Ball State University in 1967 and it was accredited in 1971.
- ❖ Wrote 11 books, following are the two most recent Al-Hawamdeh, Suliman and Hart, Thomas L. Information and Knowledge Society. McGraw-Hill (Singapore), 2002. 235 pp.

Suliman and I wrote the majority of this book before and after "High Tea" on Sundays at the Downtown Hotel with the best music group we liked. I would go to Church, then to IKEA for Swedish Meat Balls and salad, then to the Hotel. We would find an alcove in the lobby, plug in our lap-tops and begin writing. The Book has 10 chapters and we each wrote 5 of them. Then to High Tea from 4-6 pm and then back to the alcove until 10 pm.

School Library Media Facilities Planner, Neal-Schuman, New York, 2006 265 pp.

This book also included a DVD with videos of beautiful media centers.

- ❖ Wrote many significant policy documents. Following is the most significant:

The master plan acts as a blueprint for the use of IT in schools and provides every student access to an IT-enriched school environment. In this respect, schools were divided into different phases as a means to implement the plan that stretches over a 5 year period till 2002 (Ministry of Education, 1997a). Phase I schools were refurbished using an institutional model while Phase II schools MRLs are expected to more user friendly as a result of using interior decorators for the design of the MRLs. Additionally, the amount of space allocated to MRLs in schools is increased substantially in contrast to 1974 figures. This comparison is shown in Table 1.

Policy Document – Singapore Schools Media Resource Libraries: 2000 and Beyond, with others [Prepared by: Dr. Thomas L. Hart, Visiting Professor, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, and Professor & Coordinator of School Library Media Program, School of Information Studies, Florida State University, Tallahassee; June Siew, Media Services Specialist (School MRL), Ministry of Education, Singapore (on leave for 2000-2001); Advisor Dr. Schubert Foo, Associate Professor and Head, Division of Information Studies, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore]. 2000-2001].

Highlights of Tom Hart's Life

1. Grew up in a family of teachers
2. Was very active in 4-H and eventually won many Grand Championships at the Indiana State Fair for Gardening, Entomology (6 insect boxes at the end), Electricity, Forestry and Conservation Projects. One year I won the overall Grand Champion for the Horticulture Building.
3. My Junior year in High School I won the Westinghouse Electric Award which was an all-expenses paid ($300 spending money, equivalent to $3,000 today) trip to New York and Washington DC in a compartment on a train there and flying back to Indianapolis. In Pittsburgh we had Breakfast with the President of Westinghouse at the top of their new building on the Golden Triangle. In New York we were met by Dag Hammarskjold 'Limn' with UN Flags and had Breakfast with him at the top of the new UN Building. In Washington DC we were supposed to present a Plaque to President Eisenhower in the White House, he had a min heart attack and Nixon was acting President. There were 4 of us and we presented the plaque on the floor of the Senate with all the Senators there applauding us to Nixon. We then went to the Senate Dining Room for lunch and I sat between Nixon and Senator Jenner from Indiana.
4. Graduated from Ball State Teachers College as an elementary teacher with a Library Science major.

15. Chairman of the American Library Association/American Association of Publishers Joint Committee for Cataloging in Publication (Library of Congress cataloging information on the back side of a book's title page) 1985-89. Cataloging in Publication (CIP) was a result of my dissertation findings. I surveyed all the Vice President's in charge of publication for the US Publishers to determine the best method for providing cataloging information with the book, so regular people could arrange
16. their books if they wanted. Dr. Persis Rockwood from the College of Business helped me find a method for presenting all the steps needed to complete the process.
17. Selected to be a member of the American Library Association Legislation Committee for 1992-94 and served as Chairman 1992-93. This is when Clinton and Gore were becoming President and Vice President. Our Committee always met in Washington DC the week before the Inauguration. I was also lucky that Southern Air had a direct flight from Tallahassee to Washington National Airport. Also we are considered a non-partisan lobbying group and met with important people, like Senator Byrd from West Virginia. He liked me and I was invited to testify in Washington DC on a regular basis during the 1990's.
18. I was involved with creating the rules for the Web from the beginning

Flory was a professor emeritus of English at Florida State University and husband of Dr. Daisy Parker Flory, FSU's former Dean of the Faculties and professor of government emerita. A native of Nokesville, Va., He was an English professor at Florida State University for 33 years before retiring in 1978. Shortly after his retirement he earned the status of professor emeritus. Upon his retirement, Dr. Flory said he hoped he could relax a little and retire fairly quietly and that it had been a good 33 years. Prior to coming to FSU, Dr. Flory taught English at Juniata College in Pennsylvania from 1929 to 1932, was a professor and head of the English department at McPherson College in Kansas from 1935 to 1939 and headed the English department at Washington and Jefferson College in Pennsylvania from 1939 to 1945. While at FSU, Dr. Flory wrote numerous articles and accepted invitations from campus and community groups to lecture on everything from the decline of the humanities in the educational world to Florida's troubled times during Reconstruction. One of his most noted articles brought to light many little known Florida anecdotes of the famous markswomen Annie Oakley. In 1922, Oakley was badly injured on an automobile accident between Daytona Beach and Deland. Naturally, the doctors said she would never shoot again, Flory wrote in the 1966 summer issue of the North Carolina Historical Review. But by late spring, assisted by her crutches and her eternally faithful husband, she went to the Leesburg ball Park. Balancing on her good left leg, she took her favorite rifle and shot down pennies thrown into the air-a dozen without a miss. Dr. Flory was described by friends as an avid golfer and tennis player and a member of St. John's Episcopal Church. 9th President of ARF (1987-88)

Janet Wells

Dr. L. Janet (Jan) Wells, Professor Emerita died March 2, 2021, one month short of her 100th birthday. As was her nature of being dryly articulate and precisely clear, Jan directed that her obituary state that she “died” at her home at Westminster Oaks. She did not “pass away”.

Born April 16, 1921 in Palatka, FL, Jan was the only child of Edna Marshall Wells and Randall Wells lifelong residents of Putnam County. Dr. Wells came to the Florida State College for Women in 1938 after her time as a standout basketball player and cheerleader at Putnam High School. While at FSCW Jan was member of Phi Kappa Phi and Kappa Delta Phi honor societies, Mortar Board and “Even” honorary Esteren, Women’s “F” Club and Chi Omega social fraternity. She received her B.S. in 1942 and immediately went to work teaching and coaching in Leesburg, FL. Jan then answered the call of her country and joined the U.S. Naval Service in 1944. In her last months Dr. Wells was honored for her military service with a Valor Ceremony by the Big Bend Hospice Valor Team and presented with a laudatory letter, certificate, Hospice Valor pin, coin, and hand-made afghan. At the conclusion of her military service Jan returned to Alachua, FL, establishing the children’s summer camp, Crystal Lake, and subsequently entered graduate school at the University of Florida earning a M. Ed. in 1952. After a time working as an Assistant Professor of Physical Education at North Georgia College, she matriculated in Michigan State University and received her Ed. D. in 1957. With doctorate in hand Jan came “home” to Florida State University and continued to teach, administer and influence students’ lives at FSU over the next thirty years. In addition to teaching Jan served on numerous committees including the Faculty Senate, Title IX Committee, and Athletic Committee before retiring as Head of the Department of Physical Education. In her career Dr. Wells served numerous professional organizations, worked on multiple accreditation teams and published in her professional field. However, she always kept her focus on her individual students, student needs and the needs of girls and women in physical education and athletics. Prior to and after her retirement from FSU, Dr. Wells continually supported and mentored female athletes, coaches and scholars. Jan nurtured students up to and through the doctoral level, hosted students and student groups at her home, mentored students as the advisor of the Chi Omega sorority, served as university homecoming general chairperson, and oversaw FSU graduation ceremonies. Dr. Wells promoted philanthropy through establishing and supporting scholarships in the College of Education and in Athletics and helping to establish the “Committee of Thirty” to promote excellence in women’s athletics. In the community Jan worked for political causes, volunteered in local organizations and delivered Meals on Wheels for years to recipients often twenty years her junior. Jan was a familiar face at most all activities, games and events for multiple women’s athletic teams at FSU.

Throughout her career and into retirement Dr. Wells impressed and endeared herself to thousands of students through nurturing students, building character, training them in leadership, instilling integrity, and teaching them to “make a difference” in their lives. No student will ever forget the Dr. Wells “look” over the top of her half glasses if ever she was not totally pleased with individual performance academically, athletically, and morally. Just the way Dr. Wells entered a room commanded immediate respect by everyone there. Jan expected all her students to aspire to and achieve the FSCW motto, “Femina Perfecta”, the complete woman. The “Femina Perfecta” FSU endowed athletic scholarship stands today as a tribute to Dr. Wells funded by her former students. After her retirement, Jan never missed a university or athletic event nor did she slow down, instead she became a world traveler climbing in Peru to the top of Machu Picchu, riding elephants in Thailand, camels in Egypt and hiking, camping, canoeing and exploring throughout the U.S. If she was home for a time Jan could usually be found at her beach house at Shell Point, entertaining friends and students.

DEATH

Pioneering librarian, teacher dies at 90

Ruth H. Rockwood helped set up libraries all over the state.

By Dorothy Clifford
DEMOCRAT STAFF WRITER

Ruth H. Rockwood, a retired professor of library science who helped develop a public library in Leon County and in other counties throughout the state, died Saturday at Tallahassee Memorial Regional Medical Center. She was 90.

"She was eternally young," said son Charles Rockwood, a Florida State University economics professor. "She was the youngest graduate of her class at Wellesley College, I think, and she taught until she was 72, which is longer than most people teach."

A member of the FSU faculty for 26 years, Ruth Rockwood retired in 1979.

"She was a pioneer in the FSU school of library science and in the public-library development throughout the state of Florida," said Mary Ruth Hunt, a colleague and friend for more than four decades.

"She was a wonderful friend who loved to have fun," Hunt said. "She was a conservationist and she was a strong woman — a young widow who raised three children by herself. Both of her daughters became librarians."

Rockwood

She taught at FSU for 26 years, retiring in 1979.

Rockwood was born and raised in Chicago, where both of her parents were medical doctors. She received her bachelor's degree from Wellesley College in 1927. She received a master's degree in library science from the University of Illinois in 1949 and a doctorate in education from Indiana University in 1960.

Hunt met Rockwood in 1951 when Rockwood came to FSU to spend a year as a visiting professor before serving as a Fulbright lecturer at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, Thailand. There, she taught prospective librarians and helped establish a professional association of librarians as well as a system of cataloging books for that country.

She was the author of numerous professional and scholarly publications and was an active participant in national and international professional associations. She was also a past president of the Florida Library Association.

Rockwood was hired by the Leon County Commission in the early 1950s to establish a public library. She also had been a consultant to the Florida State Library and had traveled widely in the state to help found additional libraries.

She was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church, the FSU President's Club, the Pilot Club, the Tallahassee Garden Club, the Tallahassee Women's Club and the Sierra Club.

In addition to her son, she is survived by two daughters, Nancy Rockwood Haigh of Winter Park and Alice Rockwood Bethke of Palo Alto, Calif.; a sister, Helen McCalley of Cleveland; four grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Trinity United Methodist Church.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Leon County Public Library or to the FSU School of Library and Information Studies.

15th President of ARF (1993-94) Gene Tanzy

Eugene Tanzy came to Florida State University in 1940 as a Victorian Literature English Professor.

He became the coordinator of the FSU Florence Program in 1967, until his death in the mid 90's.

He was coordinator of the Florence Program when the big flood occurred in 1966.

Florida State University Florence Program

Few cities in the world are as beautiful and fascinating as Florence. This extraordinary city, whose origins go back to Roman times, experienced its peak during the Renaissance when some of the greatest artists and thinkers of the time lived and worked in Florence: Dante, Leonardo da Vinci, Machiavelli, Michelangelo and Galileo to name but a few. Test.

Florida State University has maintained a program in Florence since 1966, the year of the Great Flood. Many students helped save important works of art damaged by the flood. The heroic efforts of our students during the flood were recognized by the commune who officially praised the FSU Florence Program for their volunteer efforts at the time. This initial union between Florida State and the City of Florence created a special relationship that has grown stronger over the years.

18th President of ARF (1996-97) Katherine Hoffman

‘Eternal’ Florida State Figure, Dies at 105

From the 1930s to the 2010s, as a student, professor and distinguished alumna, she was a model citizen in support of the school. She died of Covid-19.

Katherine Hoffman began her association with Florida State University in 1932 and maintained a connection with the university for almost 90 years.

After serving as dean of women at Florida State University in the late 1960s, Katherine B. Hoffman said that her biggest accomplishment had been abolishing her own position.

•Bringing female students under the same administrators as men belonged to a larger agenda: creating greater gender equity at the school. As dean, Ms. Hoffman also eased the dress code for women and abolished their curfew.

Katherine Marie Blood was born on Aug. 1, 1914, in Winter Haven, Fla. Her father, Norman Wyckoff Blood, “used to take rich Yankees on fishing trips,” Mr. Hoffman said, and later became a citrus grower. Her mother, Laura (McCrary) Blood, was a schoolteacher.

Katherine, known as Kitty, arrived at Florida State College for Women, which later became F.S.U., in 1932. It was the Depression, and her father paid part of her tuition with bundles of oranges.

She went on to become student body president, captain of the women’s baseball and volleyball teams, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the exemplar of “charm,” as chosen by her fellow graduating classmates in their 1936 yearbook.

19th President of ARF (1997-98)

Heinz Leubkemann

Heinz H. Leubkemann, EdD

Heinz Leubkemann died peacefully June 10, 2020 at Westminster Oaks in Tallahassee, Florida, at 92 years of age.

He is preceded in death by his wife of sixty years, Celia Ann “Johnnye,” sister Gertrude “Trudy” (Yopp), and brother William. He is survived by son Geoff Leubkemann (Teri Green); grandchildren Jordan Leubkemann and Emily Leubkemann; and brother Richard (Eileen).

Oldest of four siblings, Heinz was born April 20, 1928 in New Brunswick, NJ, to Heinz and Gertrude Leubkemann and raised in Trenton, NJ.

A first generation American, Heinz paused his education after tenth grade to enlist in the United States Navy and following World War II returned to school with a singular focus. He completed high school on an accelerated schedule for veterans, then an undergraduate degree at Temple University.

His professional career began with teaching high school English and history in Philadelphia, where he had the good fortune to be on a “telephone tree” with his school’s very popular music teacher. Upon notifying her early one morning of a school snow day, he asked if she had plans. A day of ice skating and hot chocolate ensued, and six months later, on June 25, 1955, the two were married.

With an eye toward leadership roles in education, Heinz completed a Master of Education at Temple University, followed by a Doctor of Education at the Pennsylvania State University which resulted in succeeding his major professor and mentor as Director of Student Teaching at Penn State. A few years later would come relocation to Tallahassee and appointment to the same role at the Florida State University, where he would remain in various roles for the rest of a career that included successfully shepherding scores of doctoral candidates.

While highly educated and an accomplished academic, Heinz’ greatest enthusiasm outside the classroom was reserved for sailing - and if oysters were involved so much the better! From off-the-beach racing monohulls to well outfitted cruisers, Heinz was happiest on or near a sailboat. He taught generations of neighbors, Boy Scouts, and friends the joy and art of sailing. Brother, husband, father, grandfather, teacher, mentor, sailor. Heinz enriched countless lives and leaves an admirable legacy for having done so.

Fred Standley

Dr. Standley, the Daisy Flory Parker Professor Emeritus in English, taught at FSU for 50 years until his retirement in 2013. His academic pursuits specialized in both British literature and works of African-American writers, and taught a popular course on banned books that was originally developed for FSU's London program. His banned books course led to the tradition of the annual banned books read-out, where students and faculty members read aloud passages from previously banned books at Strozier Library.

Fred Standley's involvement at FSU extended beyond the classroom. Dr. Standley served as chair of the English department from 1973 to 1982, and again from 1997 to 1999. He is credited with ushering the program into the modern era, and connected faculty members with opportunities for book contracts and conference presentations. He also served as the president of FSU's Faculty Senate for two terms, chaired the search committee in 1976 (which led to the hire of Bernie Sliger), president of the friends of the Library (1989-1995; 2006-2008), and director of land acquisition from 1989-1994.

Dr. Standley's accomplishments and contributions didn't go unacknowledged. The Distinguished Service Professor Award (2003), the Friends of Strozier Library Distinguished Service Award (2006), and the FSU Torch Award (2013) are few among the many honors he received while at FSU. Awards have also been created in his honor, including the Fred L. Standley Award for Outstanding Teacher and the Friends of Strozier Library Fred L. Standley Award for the Academic Librarian of the Year. The Fred L. Standley Award "honors an outstanding faculty member within the University Libraries at the Florida State University for significant contributions to campus, state, national and/or international research librarianship and library development."

He received his PhD from Northwestern University in 1963, his Masters of Divinity from Garrett Theological School in 1958, and his Bachelor's degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College in 1954. During his illustrious career he directed the course of study of 58 Doctoral Dissertations, 9 Masters Theses, and 6 Undergraduate Honors Theses. He published four books and 57 scholarly articles related to his advocacy for minority rights and multicultural voice and experiences expressed through literature. His teaching touched the lives of tens of thousands of students at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. His service and dedication to FSU epitomized his belief in faculty involvement in university governance and assuring the equal treatment for women in academic issues at all levels.

She served as director of the Pepper Institute on Aging and as dean of the College of Social Sciences.

Marie Cowart named 2019 Volunteer of the Year at Westminster Oaks

Former FSU Dean of the College of Social Sciences, Director of the Pepper Institute on Aging and Public Policy, and professor, Dr. Marie Cowart, was selected as 2019 Volunteer of the Year at Westminster Oaks.

Dr. Cowart has been a valuable part of the Re-Development Committee that is instrumental in planning the new Memory Care Center at Westminster Oaks, scheduled to break ground this spring. She has also served on the retirement community's Health Services Advisory Committee for 10 years and is a past president of the resident council. Dr. Cowart continues to serve the Tallahassee community as a part of Serving Health Insurance Needs of the Elderly (SHINE), a program of the Department of Elder Affairs and the local Area Agency on Aging that provides free counseling on Medicare and other health-insurance issues for people living in the 14 counties of the Florida Big Bend.

Of her many years of volunteer service, Dr. Cowart says, "I never volunteer in isolation, it is always in teams. It is a joy to do things with people I will be living with the rest of my life. Volunteerism is just one of the things that make Westminster Oaks such a special place."

31st President of ARF (2009-10)

Max Carraway

After a 27-year career as Florida State's registrar, Carraway retired in 2003. Almost immediately — and now famously — he came back to “work” as an unpaid, full-time volunteer. Since then, Carraway has served the university in various capacities, stepping up to the plate wherever needed.

In recognition of the truly meaningful role he has continued to play in the life of Florida State, Carraway received the Tallahassee Democrat's 2013 Volunteer of the Year Award in the education category during a luncheon held in April.

Carraway's continuing contributions to Florida State include the countless hours he has spent researching candidates as he coordinated high-level job searches. He performed this critical work on behalf of the president as if he were a full-time employee.

Max Carraway Employee of the Year Award

2022 Award

Each year, Florida State recognizes one outstanding USPS or A&P employee who embodies the values of the University with the Max Carraway Employee of the Year Award.

32nd President of ARF (2010-11)

Sandra Rackley

WE ARE FAMILY

Dear Family,

It is with great pleasure and excitement that I welcome you to join with us, the Florida State University Association of Retired Faculty, for the 2010 -2011 year. On behalf of the Board of Directors, I want to welcome you to what we anticipate will be an exciting venture. My theme for the year is FAMILY. My thought is that we worked diligently together to build FSU into the institution that it is today. I am very proud to be a part of that legacy. Now, as we sit back and reflect about our working years with great pride, I am asking that we do that as a collective body.

I want you to think of our Luncheons, BBQ and other activities as “family reunions”. As is true in real life, whether we really want to attend these family reunions or not, there is always a mother, a grandmother or an Aunt Maggie who insists that we join in so we can see everybody. I will now serve as your “Aunt Sandra” to insist that you come and have fun with us. Even if you remember us as not being too likeable, you may be surprised at how we have mellowed with age. The Luncheons will be in the University Center Club as we attempt to embrace our university connection.

Past President Fanchon Funk is dedicated to getting our membership secure with the International Association of Retirement Organizations in Higher Education (AROHE) and has proven to already have us deeply involved. AROHE is doing a cruise which will be a Meeting-at-Sea (April 9 – 14, 2011).

ARF has joined in a cooperative effort with the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI). It is our hope that we may be strengthened by supporting each other. We have learned that OLLI will be up for a million dollar grant if they can increase their membership by fifty over what they had last year. If you have not already joined OLLI and have not been made aware of the classes and programs, I suggest that you give them a good look and join.

In 2006, Rowe established the Office of Faculty Recognition to help recognize and acknowledge faculty accomplishments and enhance the university's stature among peer institutions. "Rowe is known by the faculty as a great colleague and mentor, and she embodies the true essence of the dean of the faculties by serving as a faculty advocate and a liaison to the administration," Barron said.

It was designed to creatively contribute to the discipline of Family Science and specifically Family Life Education by bridging research and practice related to Family Life Education.

In 2022 the inaugural Anderson-Darling Family Outstanding Teaching Award was presented to a doctoral student in Human Development and Family Science at Florida State University. The second part of this award was for travel for two HDFS doctoral students who were first authors of a research paper to be presented at the National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) Annual Meeting. Darling and her husband are the primary donors of this award in recognition of her parents Harry, Eileen, and Leah Anderson, who all believed in the value of education.

In addition to writing books and doing research, Darling enjoys travel and staying connected with family, friends, colleagues, and former students in the U.S. and abroad. Since being in first grade, she always wanted to be a teacher which evolved into becoming a university professor. She has not only loved teaching, but also found joy in research and service. She likes creating new courses and learning experiences, delving into research topics about children and families, being involved in activities that move the profession forward, and connecting with students. It has been joyful and rewarding for her to interact with former students and learn what they are doing and who they have become.

38th President of ARF (2016-17) Betty Lou Joanos

Betty Lou and James (Jim) Joanos are the consummate Seminole couple. Jim was a Florida State fan before FSU was known as the Seminoles. He attended the first FSU-Stetson game on October 18, 1947 over one month before the student body adopted the Seminoles as our symbol. Jim and Betty Lou met at Florida State and have been together ever since. Both are FSU graduates, Jim graduated in 1956 and Betty Lou earned her Bachelor's Degree in 1957 and PhD in 1985. While at FSU Jim was on the track team, was the freshman class president, a Senator as a sophomore and junior and Vice-president of the student body as a senior and he was the sports editor of the Flambeau. Betty Lou was a member of the Circus, Village Vamps, Garnet Key, Sophomore Council, Junior Counselor, Secretary of the Sophomore class, Queen of Freshman Carnival, Junior-Senior Prom Court and Who's Who.

After Jim earned his law degree from Yale and served in the Air Force the couple returned to Tallahassee where they raised their family and have been heavily involved with everything Florida State ever since. Jim worked as a lawyer and later for eight years as a trial judge on the Second Judicial Circuit of Florida. He is also a former Chief Judge of Florida's First District Court of Appeal where he served as an appellate judge for 20 years. Jim is considered the FSU Athletics Historian. He has followed FSU athletics since the beginning and he and Betty Lou have attended sporting events covering all FSU sports since early in school history. You can find them outside of Tallahassee at the ACC Championships for football, basketball and baseball, bowl games and the college world series. Jim has written many historical FSU athletic articles for the Seminole Boosters, the Tallahassee Democrat and the Wakulla Times. He was instrumental in the establishment of the FSU College of Law, where he served as adjunct professor from 1978 to 2001 and he has served as president of the FSU Alumni Association. Some of the positions Betty Lou has held at FSU include Chairman of the Board and later Associate Director of the Alumni Association and the Coordinator of Home Economics Programs. She has served on the Board of Directors of the FSU Association of Retired Faculty and she is the recipient of the FSU "Faculty Senate" prestigious Mores Award. Jim was awarded the Alumni Association's Bernard Sliger Award and Betty Lou has received numerous awards for her service in the Colleges of Communications, Education and Human Sciences. Both have received the FSU Emeritus Alumni Society's Award of Excellence, as well as the Circle of Gold Award. Both have served as Co-Grand Marshals for the FSU Homecoming Parade and each is listed as One of FSU's 100 Distinguished Graduates.

James “Jim” Melton

Jim retired from Florida State University after a 34 year career. He served as Director of Administrative Computing, FSU Foundation Annual Fund Director, and was selected as President and CEO of the FSU Alumni Association in 1980, a position he served until his retirement in 2004. 42nd President of ARF (2020-21) Carolyn Shackelford

Retiree Opportunities for Continued Engagement
Florida State University (FSU) Association for Retired Faculty (ARF)

VIRES, ARTES and MORES are the Latin words for strength, skill and character found within the FSU Seal. Since I retired in 2003, I have become aware of some of the “service” contributions many of my fellow FSU Retirees continue to make even in retirement. They may continue to serve as educators, donate financially, volunteer when and where needed, spend time with individuals in need of companionship, etc. The services retirees provide after retirement are too numerous to list. The following are a few I am aware of:

43rd President of ARF (2021-22)

Larry Gerber

Larry Gerber joined the faculty of the FSU College of Music in 1979. During his career at FSU, he taught Voice, Vocal Pedagogy, Oratorio Solo Literature and was the Director of the FSU Collegians (the Men's Glee Club). He retired in 2014 as Professor of Voice and Coordinator of Voice and Opera. Gerber was the recipient of five awards for outstanding teaching from Florida State University. His students were often selected for many of the major opera training programs throughout the United States and Europe. Many of his former students enjoy highly successful teaching careers in elementary, secondary, and higher education throughout the United States. Prior to his appointment at FSU, Gerber held teaching positions at the University of Alabama and the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities. He received a Bachelor of Music Education from Fort Hays Kansas State University and a Master of Music in Vocal Performance from Colorado State University.

After University, Gerber continued his operatic training as an Apprentice Artist with the Santa Fe Opera and as a member of the Merola Opera Program with the San Francisco Opera. After competing as a National Semi-Finalist of the Metropolitan National Auditions on the Met stage, he began an active performance schedule of opera, oratorio and recital performances in the United States, Europe, the Caribbean, Central America, and the Mideast. Included in the thirty-six operatic roles he has performed are: Don Ottavio (Don Giovanni), Tamino (The Magic Flute), Rodolfo (La bohème), Alfredo (La traviata), Count Almaviva (Il barbiere de Siviglia), Sam (Susannah), Sam Kaplan and Abraham Kaplan (Street Scene), and Lysander (A Midsummer Night's Dream). As tenor soloist, he has been heard in numerous oratorios such as: Messiah, Mozart Requiem, The Creation, Elijah, St. John Passion, and St. Matthew Passion. He has been a principal artist with The National Opera of Costa Rica, Orlando Opera, Charlotte Opera, Birmingham Civic Opera, Atlanta Symphony, Charleston Opera, Dallas Bach Society, Jacksonville Symphony, The Classical Music Seminar in Eisenstadt, Austria, Shreveport Opera, Brevard Music Center, Greenville, SC Symphony, Tallahassee Symphony, and Florida State Opera. Since his retirement at FSU, Gerber has performed the following Music Theater roles: Herr Schultz (Cabaret), Father (Ragtime), Maurice (Beauty and the Beast), Bellomy (The Fantasticks), and Jim Haller (All Shook Up).

Gerber has been very active with the FSU Association of Retired Faculty, serving on the Board of Directors and as President. He maintains close contact with his former colleagues at FSU. He also remains an active teacher for Florida State University International Programs. For FSU International Programs, he has taught in London, Munich, and Valencia, Spain.

I came to FSU in 1968 as a postdoctoral fellow in experimental nuclear physics because at that time FSU was the hottest accelerator lab in the US. FSU had recently installed a new accelerator and the young faculty hired as part of that effort had made several significant nuclear physics discoveries.

In 1968, postdocs funded on grants were allowed to teach and I wanted to see if I would enjoy teaching. I had worked at a National Laboratory and knew I enjoyed research. I also knew that if I accepted a permanent position at a university, I would be required to teach. So I volunteered to teach an undergraduate class. I was assigned to teach a section of a one semester basic physics course and with mentoring by the course originator, Steve Edwards, found I very much enjoyed teaching.

All too soon it became time to look for a permanent job. As luck would have it, the chair of the Physics Department was retiring and another of the senior faculty was going on sabbatical, thereby freeing up funds for a new position in the department. Senior colleagues met with the Dean, who was Bob Lawton, and proposed that the available funds be used to hire me. Unbeknownst to me, Dean Lawton's daughter had been in my physics class and must have discussed the class with her father because Dean Lawton said he had heard of me. He also approved my hiring. So I joined the faculty in the Fall of 1971, rising to full professor in 1979, and have been at FSU ever since.
